

ATHLETICS PREVIEW TONIGHT

GAMEROFF TO ADDRESS NOVICE DEBATERS

There will be a meeting of all novice debaters at 1 p.m. today in the Walter Stewart room of the Union. Jack Winter, Vice-President of ASUS and co-chairman of ASUS debating will open the meeting with an outline of plans for 55-56.

Marvin Gameroff, now a medical student, former president of McGill Union, winner of the Papi-neau cup and one of the University's outstanding debaters will deliver the first of his introductory lectures on the Art of Debating and the use of certain tactics and approaches. Such aspects as what is debating approaching the resolution, analysing the proposition will be covered.

Wednesday, Marv will deliver his second lecture and this will be followed by a series of short informal debates by freshmen teams with Senior debaters advising. These debates will be analyzed and criticised by Gameroff himself.

FACULTY OF ARTS AND SCIENCE CHANGE OF COURSE

Students wishing to change a course for which they are registered, must do so by completing the appropriate "Change of Course" forms available in the assistant Dean's office, room 140, arts building.

These forms (three) must be completed and turned in by the student who should call back within two days to receive his signed copy if the change is approved.

Merely turning in the forms does not constitute authority for the change and it is the student's responsibility to ascertain that the change has been approved.

The deadline for changing courses is 12 o'clock noon Saturday, October 15th and no requests whatsoever will be considered after this date.

Office of the Assistant Dean,
Faculty of Arts and Science.

LECTURES CANCELLED FALL CONVOCATION

The annual Fall Convocation will be held on Founder's Day, Thursday, October 6, in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium-Armoury at 8 p.m.

All lectures and laboratory periods, except those in the Faculty of Medicine and in the Faculty of Dentistry, will be cancelled from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. on that day.

T. H. Matthews,
Secretary of Senate.

Used Textbooks Still Available

Continuing in its first time in history used book sale, the McGill University Bookstore, located in the basement of the Arts Building, urges all students to take advantage of the opportunity to save themselves money by buying used texts.

The sale is on a first come first served basis and no reservations will be taken under any condition. If a student keeps the book in good condition he can re-sell it to the store in the spring, thus receiving almost what he paid for it originally and acquiring some ready cash for the long summer lay-off.

CURRIE GYM SCENE OF SPORTS PROGRAM

Both Intramural and Intercollegiate sports will be introduced to Frosh at the Athletics Preview (tonight) at 8 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Gym.

Talks by McGill's sports figures, exhibitions of the more popular athletics and a records dance will constitute the program.

Male students will assemble in the West Gym, coeds in the B.W.F. (Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing) Room.

Men

Harry Griffiths, Director of Athletics at McGill, will address the male students, and point out the part athletics play in University life. Pete Abbott, Chairman of the SAC (Students Athletic Council) will brief the students on the administrative organization existing to carry our vast athletic program.

Howie Ryan, Director of the Intramural sports program, will enumerate the various competitions carried out on this level, and elaborate on the more popular ones. Tim Wagg will say something about Intercollegiate Athletics.

Required Sports

The required sports program for Freshmen will be outlined by John

Meagher, who is in charge of compulsory athletics.

One of the highlights of the evening for male students will be the discussion on football, led by Larry Sullivan, and the showing of football movies. Following this, managers of the various teams will circulate around the gathering to answer any questions and to sign up willing Frosh for their teams.

Coeds

Coeds, in the meanwhile, will hear about the individual sports from the managers, and will meet the executive of the MWSAA (McGill Women's Sport Athletic Association). Following a skit, Miss Bean will show slides of sports on campus. Coeds will then be able to sign up for the various sports.

At approximately 9:45 p.m. both male and female students will meet at the pool to witness an exhibition of synchronized swimming and diving. Following this, two squash matches, three badminton games and a fencing display will go on simultaneously.

With the conclusion of the sporting activities for the evening, students will gather in the main gym for a records dance. Refreshments will then be sold.

WAR MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIPS MADE AVAILABLE

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire have established nine post-graduate scholarships to enable students to carry on studies in History, Economics, Constitutional Government, and any other subject vital to the interests of the British Empire.

Each scholarship, which is worth $2,000, is tenable at any University in the United Kingdom. The scholarship may be awarded to the same candidate for a second year.

Selection

Selection of a candidate will take place during November, 1955 unless re-appointment of the holder of a scholarship is being considered; in which case the selection will be made not later than January 25, 1956.

In order to be eligible for scholarship, candidates must be between 19 and 27 years of age and unmarried until after the tenure of the scholarship. They must have resided in Canada for at least five years, must hold a degree from a recognized University or degree-granting college, and must have

Editorial

GOOD ADVICE FOR NICE GIRLS

"Someone once told us that freshettes were clue-less." This is the opening line of the "Clue-Book" for the guidance of new students at McGill. Frankly after an astonished look through this backwater Baedeker we are forced to the conclusion, although no one was considerate enough to come to tell us, that some upper classettes are quite clue-less too.

That is not to say that the thing does not have literary merit or that such a guide could not be a useful thing. The editor (s) advise the dew-eyed freshette to "try to write her nicest" when taking her English test. This is good advice; one should write "nicely". The "Clue-Book" is written "nicely". Unfortunately the "nice" writing tends to obscure the facts.

"When meal-time comes . . . you might want to eat a meal or two at the McGill Union . . . (but) Mostly men eat there." We met some men once; didn't hurt a bit.

Concerning the WOMEN'S Union the clue-book has this to say: "Politically speaking, last year (they) raised a row by proposing to eliminate a clause in (their) Constitution which binds the Women's Union to pay one dollar per member to McGill Union to provide Women's facilities in the building. The clause dates back to the time when the McGill Union was a sort of men's clubhouse. In the light of the proposed New Union, which is a Student's Society project, the Executive thought it was, time to clean up (their) Constitution and eliminate this clause which isn't appropriate to the present situation. However, the whole problem proved to be one touching on many branches of student government, so the Motion was tabled until a Women's Union meeting next year, thereby providing time for the S. E. C. to investigate the problem."

This short paragraph contains a great deal of material; unfortunately not very much of it makes sense. The Women's Union appears to be concerned over their having had to pay to provide female comforts in a men's club. Now that there is no longer a men's club on Sherbrooke Street, but a Union of which they are all members, they want the men to pay the shot. This is being a "nice" girl and allowing the male to play his chivalrous role in society.

The guide in admitting that the women of the University have not been able to take the whole male population of McGill for suckers, suggests that freshettes come here to study. Books are the important things! According to the clue-book freshettes are not allowed to take them from the library. We talked with a young woman at the library, she was not at all "clue-less", nor did she seem to think that freshettes were any different from any other people who came to McGill to learn. She told us that freshettes could borrow books just like their big sisters.

As a parting shot, the clue-book has some very good advice that we think ought to be passed on to each and every student at this University. They say in a passage from their handy table of good manners for "nice" girls; "(Don't) read the Daily in lectures." They point out that it costs about 85 cents to attend a lecture, and that the Daily costs only two cents. Therefore if you read the Daily you are wasting money. They go on to say, "If you read the New York Times or the Manchester Guardian we might sympathize." Presumably because these papers cost more than eight cents. Merit is in direct proportion to price? The clue-book, on the other hand, costs nothing at all.

A NFCUS SUGGESTION

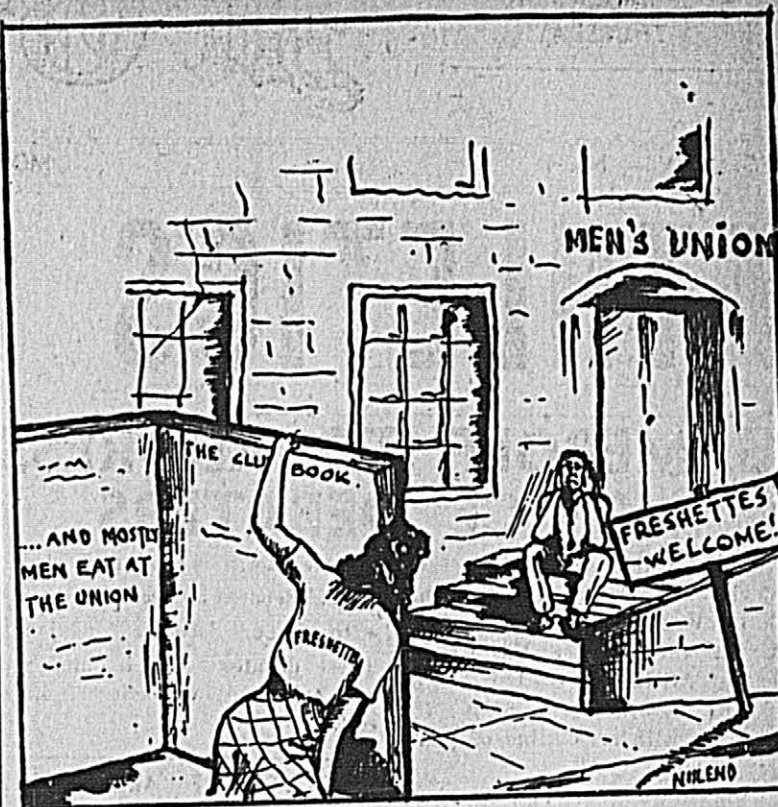

The University of Toronto Students' Administrative Council last week turned down the proposal of one of its members that NFCUS, Canada's national student union, should suspend its activities for a period of five years. The person who put forth the suggestion evidently felt that Canadian students could build a stronger organization in which to plan and to talk over the basic structure of NFCUS.

We feel that the proposed suspension is not the answer to the NFCUS question. However, it does recognize that the trouble with the organization is a basic deficiency and calls for drastic measures which will at present solve NFCUS' dilemma. NFCUS advocates are fond of pointing out that national student unions work in other countries; in some European nations the students form a powerful lobby by whose opinions are considered and respected by the government

In Canada conditions are generally good in the universities; so far there has been little need for a strong student lobby. Nor do Canadian colleges permit their students to have the same measure of self-government as those enrolled in universities in other countries.

In short it is possible that Canadian students neither need nor want a national student lobby.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR . . .

Luxury Before Necessity

THE EDITOR:

I would like to take this opportunity to commend the writer of the editorial "War Babies, More Babies", which appeared in the Daily on September 27. The topic, I feel, was well chosen and well presented.

There is one point, however, which I feel must be considered before we accept the sentiment expressed in the sentence, "We feel that perhaps this University should aim at quality instead of quantity, at becoming if possible the Harvard or Cambridge of Canada, as Principal James said." The point to which I refer is the fact that Quebec does not really have an English speaking university which could become the "London, Columbia or Calcutta" of our province. My reference is to the Province rather than to Canada because I feel that if student enrolment increases in this province to the degree which has been predicted, we shall have to provide a university which can absorb the "overflow" from McGill, or McGill itself will have to expand. Our social, political and industrial organization to day is such that while admitting the desirability of having McGill emphasize quality, we must nevertheless recognize the right of potential students to acquire a university education somewhere in this province.

Luxuries must always take second place to necessities; and the type of university which your editorial envisages is a luxury which must await the establishment of a "London, Columbia, or Calcutta."

Westward Ho ! OR WE COULDN'T FIND THE YELLOW ROSE OF TEXAS IN KINGSTON

by
IRWIN "BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE" SANKOFF

OBJECT OF THE EXPERIMENT: To procure a rare animal, presently extinct at McGill University; one of the species of either drumetus majoretteus or the rare cheerleaderetti specimen of which the female is extinct in these here parts.

APPARATUS: One band (good musicians but lousy singers), cheerleaders (male), and two of the very elite, Daily sport reporters including their gift of gab and pen, personality, charm, etc., etc., hereafter referred to as P and Q.

MATERIALS: Butterfly net, binoculars, wolf's head and sheep's clothing.

OBSERVATIONS AND RESULTS: Wow and nil! The expedition set sail from the Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning early in the morning and reached the target point at higher noon. Along the route the invaders took several small towns on the Queens highway (no pun intended) by storm. After entering the Stadium P began to plant, a sure sign that his sensitive ninth sense had picked up the prey. Then it happened! They came into view. Several of them. But something was wrong, as Q pointed out. They were wearing awfully long skirts, not like the skirts of the cheerleaderetti as shown in the catalogue. The very observant P noticed also that their behaviour was quite peculiar, they were not turning cartwheels, or jumping, or even blowing us kisses!

P began to cry. Q also started bawling and the crowd applauded. It sounded lovely. Just like the wail of bagpipes. Then a horrible realization came to us. It was bagpipes!

Slowly, ever so slowly on our dull minds, images began to focus. Then like a hurricane, or rather a gael, it hit us, pow right in the kisser. These were not cheerleaderettes, but the Queen's Pipe band. P and Q looked at each others tear stained faces and broke into a slight, ever so slight, smile. Shaking our heads we agreed together, band or no band, those kilts have just got to go! They're too confusing for our simple minds.

After watching another group of deceivers in the same kind of garb, we saw a real good band (but horrible singers) wearing colorful red and white soldier uniforms. They crossed the goal lines five times as they marched up and down the field playing good music (but terrible singers). Unfortunately these points were not added to McGill's total.

Then our attention was drawn to seven of the cheerleaderetti, in proper dress, and one of the majoretteus with a very big head. Secret and confidential files were made and at present are under lock and key, and also under the Ed's bed in the Daily offices.

After the ball was over we roamed the avenues of dear old Kingston, stopping in at the Berry house for refreshment. Then empty handed we turned for home and saw it, one of our cheerleaders had seven of the things we were looking for in tow. We sneaked up and tried a flank attack, but like the Redmen failed to make yards.

Next we tried the rugged approach but all we got were two of the kilted bandmen and their bagpipes, we left them in the gutter. Finally we were charged by a bunch of maniacs in pyjamas who thought it was the middle of the night and by simple mathematics deduced that they were frosh. We hid from them behind a leaf, which can be seen in the Daily offices between 12 and 2, A.M.

As the bus pulled out of the haven of the cheerleaderetti we found ourselves looking forward to next Saturday when another batch come to McGill from Western, (Continued on Page Four)

INTRAMURAL TRACK MEET TODAY

By STU SMITH

Today will tell the story as far as the makeup of McGill's official track and field team is concerned. Advance indications point to a large turnout, perhaps the largest in history, for the combined Intramural and McGill Championship track meet to be held this afternoon at 2:00 p.m. at the famed Percival Molson Memorial Stadium. Coach Joe Anderson, in an effort to improve over last year's third-place finish in the four-college Intercollegiate competition in this sport, is keeping an open mind as far as making his final selections for the squad which will carry the Red and White at Western University in London two weeks from today.

COACH JOE ANDERSON

Good-natured Joe is making no secret of the fact that he is seeking new blood to fill the gaps left by graduating performers such as Lionel Whitman, shot-put and discuss expert, as well as someone who will rise from the ranks, so to speak, and display championship hurdling or sprinting form. Last season's edition of the Senior track team was notoriously out-classed in these competitions.

Old Man Weather will be called on to cooperate this afternoon in the hope that he will not decide to repeat the downpour which was the scene at the last Intramural meet. Perhaps the fact that this year will see both the Intramural and McGill championships in the same meet will influence his decision favorably. Engineering students are, of course, hoping that their representatives will be successful in their defence of the Intramural title which the Plumbers have held now for two consecutive years. The entry this year, however, of higher calibre competitors is likely to alter the pattern of previous years considerably. (Previously, members of the Track team were considered ineligible for the Intramural races, but this season the team is to be chosen SOLELY on the performances in today's meet.)

The 440-yard race will probably attract a great deal of attention as Peter Reid, last year a star in (Continued on Page Four)

ATHLETICS PREVIEW

By L. BRENDER

Welcome all girls to your formal introduction with the M.W.S.A.A. (McGill Women Students' Athletic Association). The eventful night of the Athletics Preview is to take place this evening October 5, at 8:00 pm sharp. All Women students directed by the Scarlet Key Men will go to the B.W.F. room, where a very enlightening and enjoyable program has been planned.

The purpose of this evening is to introduce the freshmen to the various athletic clubs open to them and to help them in choosing their favourite sports. The managers of the different clubs will be on hand to give a short (all of 2 minutes) pep talk about their athletic club and then a skit of some strange (?) variety will be offered to depict each of the athletics.

After this, comes the highlight, when Miss Gladys Bean will show many beautiful coloured slides. The subjects—campus co-eds participating in athletics of every shape and variety, from snowballing to tennis playing. Miss Bean usually has some lovely shots to show of the previous winter carnival, and the carnival queen, too.

From here, the girls will be ushered to the swimming pool where an exhibition of diving, ornamental, and speed swimming has been arranged by Sheila Roy. In the riflery range, archery and riflery target practice will meet your eyes; while in the gym some nimble and poised fencers, with agile badminton players nearby, will provide the entertainment.

This gala and fun packed evening will be topped off by a dance which will take place in the gym. Free cokes for all. What more can be asked? Let's make it a date for a terrific Tuesday night festivity.

BOXING

All persons interested in boxing should contact Bert Light at 5:00 p.m. in the B. W. F. room in the Sir Arthur Currie Gym.

DEAN'S NOTICE

In order to perpetuate the memory of the men and women who gave their lives in World War II, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire have established three post-graduate Scholarships in English or French Literature, History and Philosophy. Each Scholarship provides $2,000 per annum and is tenable at any University in the British Empire. Applications must be made by October 15th and details are available at the Dean's Office, Arts Building.

GOLF

The first round of the Intramural Golf Tournament was played yesterday at Dixie. The ten low scorers will play today for the Intramural championship.

Low scorers were B. Hanna 76, B. Powell 77, P. Northey 77, M. Flemming 81, D. Hampson 82, A. R. McFarlane 83, Redmond 84, S. Godel 85, D. Fuller 85, and E. Little 87.

These ten will play 18 holes today to decide the Intramural championship. The four low scorers for the 36 holes will represent McGill in the Intercollegiate championships at Queens.

CAFETERIA

There are two vacancies still remaining in the cafeteria for students interested in working there in return for free meals.

Application in person should be made at the cafeteria to Dick Winter between 1-2 pm.

WESTWARD HO!

Western, Western U. College full of squares, Johnny Metas is their coach, who the heck cares. One good thing about them though — their band doesn't wear skirts and we will be able to find the cheerleaderetti more easily.

CONCLUSIONS:

1. We want cheerleaderettes
2. Fifty men on a something or other and they can't do anything (or words to that effect).
3. Band should stick to music and stop singing.
4. Cheerleader Alec is a traitor, he had two of the cheerleaderetti in captivity and let them go.
5. Phil is a good boy.
6. What's the matter with old McGill, She's all right, oh yes you bet — and the odds are three and a half to one, pick your choice, for those betting.
7. No yellow roses in Kingston. Report respectively submitted by Irwin "Bring 'em Back Alive" Sankoff.

Woodsmen's Meet Will Be Held Oct. 15

The McGill Woodsmen's Competition will be held this year at Forbes Field on Saturday, October 15. Teams of six men each from McGill and other colleges will again be competing in such events as tree felling, chopping, sawing and pulp throwing.

This is an intramural as well as an intercollegiate meet. Last year over half the 13 teams entered were from McGill faculties. This year arrangements have been made to accommodate an even larger number of McGill entries. It is expected that at least one team from each faculty will be present.

There will be a big Square Dance the night of the competition in the Union Ballroom!

INTRAMURAL TRACK...

The Intercollegiate meet, will come up against Doug Maule, an equally-respected performer over the quarter-mile of cinders. Maule, it is reported, is a vastly improved runner after a year's competition, and he has defeated Reid a number of times in Provincial races. Reid, however, is said to have won their last encounter by a considerable distance. It is anybody's guess as to who will emerge victorious today. One may be sure that Mr. Joe Anderson would be a much happier man if all his problems were of this nature.
